STATOTHR

1. In an interview on 7 February, I was quite impressed with [REDACTED] and believe he is someone who should be carefully considered for employment. He has an excellent education and an outstanding war record. He is deceptively quiet and unassuming but seems levelheaded and self-assured. Several people in the Agency who know him well think highly of him, among them [REDACTED] of my office.

2. [REDACTED] has not had the type of legal experience I particularly want at this time. I discussed this case orally with two or three people and found strong interest in the Air Maritime Division. I think he is potential career service material and Training might like to interview him.

STATOTHR

3. In any case I do not wish to lose sight of [REDACTED] in the event that something may turn up for him in this office.
